Dear Hiring Team,

I am a student at San Francisco State University who is currently my second year pursuing a Computer Science degree with an expected graduation date of May 2023. I am very eager to join your team to apply my skills to a real-world environment and learn from the very best out there.

I have taken courses such as Intro to programming with a Software Lab, Data Structures, and I am currently enrolled in Math Structures with Java as my main language. I have experience with the program Dev/Mission (devmission.org), where I collaborated with other students learning Web Development, Networking, and IT.

I am glad to say that I have had the opportunity to work with a wide range of people, and I am confident in my ability to learn new skills and share ideas with others. I am excited to tackle any project thrown at me and come up with new ways to solve them. I would also want to learn and share the knowledge that I have with others and pick up new skills along the way.

Studying CS had opened up the door for me to explore new opportunities that I haven't had before. I will be able to make my ideas come to life while also creating programs that would eventually benefit others. Joining this internship will impact my life because it will push me in the right direction to get a great job and eventually take care of my family.

I am determined to put in all the work that is necessary to get ahead. Growing up, I learned that it's important to give it your all like my parents used to say, if you're going to do something, try to be the best are at least among the best. This is one idea that has still stuck with me and the hard work and determination my parents gave me by watching them struggle through hard situations trying to put me through school and give me a better life overall. I want to make sure I repay them with the same amount of hard work but with greater results so they will never have to work and finally relax. Even though I have struggled through hard situations in life, I will always overcome them. Through this pandemic, I have gone through school, internships, work, and taking care of my family.

Sincerely

Erik Rodriguez
